What Can an AAT Bookkeeper Do?

An AAT Bookkeeper is qualified to provide bookkeeping services to support businesses of all sizes with accurate financial records ensuring that their accounts are up-to-date.

A bookkeeper helps businesses stay in complete control of their finances - they deal with day-to-day finance tasks such as data entry, VAT returns and payroll, and can prepare anything up to trial balance. The types of services typically carried out by a bookkeeper include:

- Purchase orders and invoicing
- Sales accounting and credit control
- Cash and banking admin
- Data processing
- Payroll accounting
- Using data to prepare financial statements

PROFESSIONAL STATUS

The professional bookkeeper status launched in July 2016 offering a new level of AAT membership – “AAT Bookkeeper”.

An AAT Bookkeeper holds an AAT associate bookkeeping membership and can use the designatory letters “AATQB” after their name.

How to achieve AATQB status?

When you successfully complete Level 2 Certificate in Bookkeeping and Level 3 Certificate in Bookkeeping, you can apply for AAT associate bookkeeping membership and achieve professional AATQB status.

Why Professional AATQB Status Matters?

Professional Recognition

AATQB status (AAT associate bookkeeping membership) is a new professional designation for employees in bookkeeping roles. It indicates the highest standards of professional conduct, up to date technical knowledge and commitment to ongoing learning. It's becoming increasingly important for businesses to employ staff with professional status. AAT is a full member of IFAC, the global organisation for the accountancy profession.

Professional Standards

AATQB status demonstrates that you are undergoing CPD, signed-up to AAT's Code of Professional Ethics, and are subject to our disciplinary processes. Our Code of Professional Ethics involves following five fundamental principles: integrity, objectivity, professional competence and due care, confidentiality, and professional behaviour. With AAT associate bookkeeping membership, you are investing in your career and demonstrating the highest standards and best practice in bookkeeping.

Progression Options

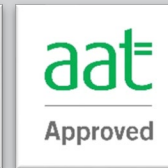

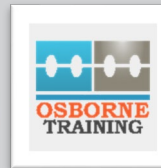

When you are looking for promotion, professional AATQB status is a visible mark of quality, competence and commitment. It also instils confidence in colleagues and clients. AAT Bookkeepers can go on to study AAT Accounting Qualifications and apply for MAAT status (become an AAT full member). MAAT status offers a fast track route to chartered status with all of the UK's chartered accountancy bodies.
